

Hi everyone,

I am Luisa, I am Italian, I was a translator and now I'm an English teacher to Italian students and I teach Italian online to international students

Exact online teaching !!!

It is my new profession !!!

In some countries this is not an exceptional fact, but in Italy it is not so normal, as the mentality is not just avant-garde.

Unfortunately, the pandemic besides bringing misfortunes, death and losses, has increased this new way of working.

I am not very young, and I had to get back into the game some years ago after losing my job because of mobbing.

I thank my family who encouraged me to study languages when I was younger, because this has led me to always have new outlets, including the current online teaching, which I love very much.

My experience is definitely positive, because with almost all my students I have woven a relationship of trust that often leads to friendship.

It is true that between me and my students there is a screen, but believe me that the feelings, the passion to teach and to learn are felt, are alive and are real !!! It is true that I teach, but it is equally true that every day I also learn something....I would say it is a human exchange !!!

There is a very nice quote, which I often use TO HAVE ANOTHER LANGUAGE, IS TO HAVE A SECOND SOUL by Charle Magne, and it can fit in various circumstances. So, guys be curious, travel and don't give up your dreams !!

When it is not possible to travel, we can find other alternatives, for instance the project erasmusacademyinfluencers gives the opportunity to learn current and future subjects, staying at home and still staying in touch with students from all over the world.

Also in this way you can make new friends, experiences and have further chances for your life.

I also often take online English language updates with professors and international students and I say that it works !!! !
